Our Story

Bid Identification and Development Services (BIDS) was founded to address a critical gap in the federal procurement process. We recognized that many businesses struggle to identify, prepare for, and successfully navigate government contracting opportunities.

With our proprietary database of over one million federal contract records and expertise in business document preparation, we help clients focus on opportunities that matter most to their business while reducing the administrative burden of procurement processes.

Based in Fort McMurray, Alberta, we serve clients across Canada who are looking to grow their business through government contracts. Our team combines industry knowledge, analytical expertise, and advanced AI tools to deliver exceptional results for our clients.
